“ When Emersons Super 400 Gibson giitar arrived at Harding and Miller Music store in the early 1970s without a Bigby string stretcher, he put one on the guitar himself, When a new one came by mistake with the Bigsby attached I was the proud purchaser. By the way, although we didn't know each other we were both fans of Chet Atkins and playfjis style.

“ Some of my favorite memories of my childhood are when we'd go to Granddad and Grandmom Scott's for a large family gathering and Emerson, Granddad and Uncle Aud (Granddad's brother) would get out their instruments and play music until they were too tired to play anymore. Emerson gave me a tape several years ago of their music. I was around 7 years old when he and Wanda started dating and was at my grandparents when he brought Wanda to meet them the first time. He will be missed by his family and friends. My love goes out to Wanda and all the family.

“ In about 1970 Emerson ordered a Gibson Super 400 Guitar which arrived without the string stretcher "Bigsby." Gibson sent another Super 400 with the Bigsby attached, to Harding Music store but Emerson had already bought and assembled one on his guitar. The store was going to send it back to Gibson. Through employee, Gary Stephan's, I was the purchaser of the extra guitar that came in. If not for Emerson, I would have missed out on this wonderful instrument. We both have enjoyed the finest guitar made and have been Chet Atkins emulators. My condolences to the family of this very talented man.
