“ I was married to Jimbo we had a son his only son. Jimbo and Andy look so much alike he wasn't in Andy's life but he knew where he came from. Andy had a good dad that took care of him but he also passed away in 2011, Jimbo was a good man he will be missed but I will always have a part of him through his only son James Andrew Turner. God bless all the family through this next few days and afterwards.

“ It is truly sad to see you leave so soon. I will always remember that little boy who was crazy about me singing and made your Dad bring you to church early so you could come sit up beside me on the piano and sing with me. You would always say let's sing Jesus on the main line and smile so big. I can hear you in my mind today. Then a few years down the road I saw you at a Sureway, and you stopped me and said, Betty guess what I'm doing this weekend? I said going hunting, you said no better, I'm singing with a gospel group like I always wanted to. You told me always sing for Jesus till the day we leave this world. My what memories I have of you. But the light in your eyes shined bright when I did just as you asked.... I came to hear you. You told everyone I taught you how to sing, I said no I taught you how to not be scared and sing to the Lord. God bless the family you leave behind you will be missed and always loved.
