“ One of the fondest memories I have of Mary is when she would come to the Moose with Marie and Dee Horn. We would all sit and talk about our good old days and our younger years and of course Peabody, god rest his soul who has passed away would join in with a few laughs of his own. Mary would always talk and praise her children and say how glad she was to have a friend like Marie who would go out and take her places. She would also say that it was a delight when her mother (Louise) and her stepfather (M.E. Slaughter would come and get her to take her to visit her brother and sisters who lived out of town or just go to their house to spend the day. Samantha of course was always taking her when she could and Mary told me once that she wanted to go out to Denny's and eat and told Sam to just drop her off and come back and get her after she got out of class. Sam didn't really want to do that, but Mary talked her into it, but when Sam came to get her she wasn't ready to leave and Mary told her to come back later. Sam hesitated, but she seen that Mary was having such a great time talking to some friends she knew and meeting new ones she left. You see Mary never met a stranger, but poor Sam had to come back 3 times before Mary decided to go home. Mary really made a day of it though and enjoyed herself.
