“ *Grandpa,
There are so many memories I could write down on here to show how much i love you. One memory has been stamped into my brain and I cant stop thinking about it. It was the day Karson was born, you refused to hold him because he was so little. Once you put your hands on your great grandson for the first time you were automatically in love with him. we love and miss you grandpa. As we lay you down today I just want you to remember we all love you.*
