“ I am one of those many nieces, & he was the best man I've ever met. he always told people exactly how he felt, & didn't hold back from anything. He always gave me "talks" about this or that, & things I should do or shouldn't. I seen him 4 days before he passed, & I made sure to tell him how much I loved him. He just simply said, "I love you too baby, Make me proud."

“ City Boy meets Uncle Bob" As I arrived for a weekend of hunting with little Bob I remember the Coon Dogs howl and a man with arms of steel building a deer stand out of scrap metal that would have made mcgyver jealous,after a day of country fun thought I had seen it all, not even the beginning . Woke next morning to the smell of coffee as I entered the kitchen I saw a raccoon sitting at the table with Uncle Bob eating Cheerios 🙄 that's when a raspy voice says Boy you going hunting?yes I responded I was dressed in my new camo for first time in life, had my new knife, flashlight , bow I had never shot and a little tinks 69 I was ready! But somehow I had misplaced my new white shoes:-(I hear boy I put those shoes outside I said I don't see them ! Uncle Bob says good cause you ain't going hunting with me with those white shoes .. Huh" well the reason I didn't see them was because he had painted them😂.. For over 30 years Bob would know every November that boy he now called bowling would yet again need his guidance .. Thanks Dad for the memories
