“ I have heard many stories about Terry from her sister Pam. Childhood stories, adult sister stories, and then the stories around taking care of Terry when she needed help, supporting her husband, and the family involvement to stay connected to a sister/aunt/spouse, when she could not communicate back. Love makes it possible to just feel it's existence without need for confirmation it was received. It is a sweet thought that Terry can move and talk freely now that she has passed, giving meaning to eternal joy. God's Blessings on her and those that love her.
Sincerely, Libby Brown
