“ Hey Dad, I know by now you're cruising with your new ridin' buddies, but please do me a favor and give them plenty of time before you decide to turn or stop. Back tires only last so long and locking them up to keep up with you doesn't help any. I'm gonna miss those rides we had together. You were always a trip to ride with. We would head out for one destination and half the time wind up somewhere else or take one of you shortcuts and take twice as long. However, I liked the shortcuts because we got to go down more backroads and see more scenery. I'm gonna miss the talks we had and working on the cars and motorcycles together. It was fun ridin' shotgun with you when I was younger and got to go to work with you. You would make it fun by sometimes going four wheeling in the truck. It was also fun when I was younger by messing with you at the supper table. You never knew where your food would wind up. I could go on forever, but you know what we did. I just wanted to say that I am proud to be your son and there will never be a man or Dad like you.
I love you Dad and can't wait for our next ride together !!

“ ok, it is going to be hard to let go of you , and all the amazing memories I have, since I first met you at the age of 16. Your wife is like my sister, you were like my brother. I enjoyed our bantering back and forth, you running after me to gum me with your teeth out , especially after the mysterious leak from your ceiling! Singing with you, all the fun holidays and vacations, the list is endless. Your sons will always be like my own, and I will always be there for them, as well as for Ruth. You left your mark on this crazy world of ours and you are going to be sorely missed by all the lives you have touched. Sing now with the angels and we will all see you again on that beautiful golden shore. Love you!

“ Okay, Dad, haven't had one in years, but your omelettes were the best. Loved all the Cards games we went to, and all the Bluecats games. Pretty amazing catch you made only weeks after triple bypass. Too many nicknames to list them all, but Slim, Buford T. Justice both come to mind. Don't forget that when you sing all those old country ballads which you did so well, that it will really add a kick to the arrangement if you say hey, hey after every verse. How many times did John make you run to the phone that night when he would punch in the code to be able to dial your phone from the extension? Was it cold on the roof in the rain when the "leak" suddenly appeared by the chimney? And whatever you do, make sure you duck when you go under overpasses on the interstate, but please warn the passengers in the car to do likewise. And don't take routes on vacation that have all those toll booths. I could go on all night with fun memories like these, but we already share them, don't we Pop? Oh, by the way, hope there is Cartoon Network and Boomerang there.

“ Even though I'm no longer officially part of the family, I will always consider Bill and Ruth as surrogate Mom and Dad. Bill always had a sense of humor and cared for everyone. Ruth (aka Mom) know that he will always be with you. Keep in mind the good times and know that that he loved you very much (as do you all of your kids and grandkids). Ben and I send our love and hugs.....
